SINK INTO OBLIVION

Dr. Van Schaick Addresses Schoolmen on Personalities of War.

It would be bad business to put the ex-kaiser to trial for the crimes he committed against the peace of the world, in the opinion of Dr. John Van Schaick, president of the board of education, who made an address on "Great Personalities of the Great War" to the Federal School Men's Club at a dinner at Cushman's last

William Hohenzollern is now a gitive. In the eyes of a great many his countrymen he is ridiculous. He quit his people in their hour of deepest sorrow," Dr. Van Schaick said, "and to bring him before the bar of justice will bring the danger of making him a heroic character and per-haps a martyr to a large proportion of the Germans. It would be an asset to the dying cause he represents. Let him stay where he is and he will sink into practical oblivion.'

Saw War at Close Range.

Former American Red Cross co ner for Belgium, Dr. Van Schaick had abundant opportunity to study at close range some of the leading characters and observe in detail some of the most important events of the war in one of the centers of the world up-heaval. For more than an hour he described his contacts with statesmen and peasants, generals and privates, noblewomen and hospital nurses, diplomatists and nobodies, socialists, liberals, all working hand in hand for just contain one cause—victory. Intimate, interesting little things he told that haven't scious. found their way into print in the mass of war literature.

WOULD LET KAISER EMORY R. LEWIS IS HELD ANNAPOLIS SOON FOR GRAND JURY ACTION

Accused of Intoxication While Operating Automobile Which Overturned, Killing G. W. Lancaster.

Charged with driving an automobile under influence of liquor, Emory R. Lewis, operator of an automobile in which George W. Lancaster was a passenger, and which turned over, pinning the latter under it and killing him, last Friday, was held for the action of the grand jury, by a coroner's jury at the inquest yesterday afternoon at the District morgue.

The jury returned the verdict as fol-lows: "We, the coroner's jury, render the following verdict: "George W. Lancaster came to his death on January 2, at or near New Jersey avenue and K street northwest, from crushed skull and shock, caused by being injured when an automobile operated by Emory R. While the state senate has fourteen democrats and twelve republicans, despite the vacancy in the district, the senator to be chosen on Monday will serve for a full four-year term and will be a member of the senate of 1922 as well as that of this year. Consequently, a failure to elect a demo-crat as the successor to Senator Campbell might result in republican control in 1922, which will be in the middle of Gov-elect Ritchie's term, as the republicans gained a senator in November in the democratic county of Montgomery and elected in all six senators, who will be holdover senators in 1922.
